

FetLife.com is the largest social network for kinky people, with over 1.6 million accounts. However, FetLife censors survivors of sexual assault and rape when they try to warn others of abuse at the hands of FetLife users. Silencing rape survivors must end. Such censorship enables a culture of abuse rather than providing support for survivors.

The FetLife Alleged Abusers Database Engine (FAADE) is a free, easy to use software tool that empowers anyone to anonymously report a consent violation at the hands of a FetLife user, and automatically warn others about the incident.
